

She turned to her roommate and socialized with her. They both feel homesick and it's nice being able to talk to somebody about it. Not only this conversation made her slightly happier, she also felt more independent.

Continue

able to talk to somebody about it. Not only this her. They both feel horrible and it's nice being she turned her head and specialized with conversation made her slightly happier, she also felt more independent.

containing

