

May is preparing for the Chinese national exam, Gaokao.

One day her mother told her that there's more opportunities for her if she could get into an art school in the United States. To do so, she needs to make much effort and try her best.

She wishes she could pursue her dream, but she's also a little bit afraid to go abroad and live by herself, because that means she'll leave her family.

Continue

May is preparing for the Chinese national exam, Gaokao.

One day her mother told her that there's more opportunities for her if she could get into an art school because that means she'll leave her family.

She wishes she could pursue her dream, but she's also a little bit afraid to go abroad and live by herself, in the United States. Today, she needs to make much effort and try her best.

contribution

United States

China

